“The hardest thing to understand is the income tax” Albert Einstein

16 things every Tanzanian should know about income tax.

With the new government’s efforts to ensure that every Tanzanian and Tanzanian company pays their taxes so as to ensure growth of the country, the Tanzanian Associates team saw it fitting to provide legal information on income tax in Tanzania in a nutshell. Paying Tax on income earned in the country is an obligation of every individual or entity that earns an income in the country. Therefore it is necessary to provide legal information on the matter, so as to ensure compliance and avoid unnecessary fines and penalties.

WHAT IS INCOME TAX?

Income tax can be simply defined to mean tax paid on income. This means individuals and legal entities (companies) are required by law to pay tax on all their income. However not every income is taxable and not every person is required to pay income Tax. Who and how much income one should pay is provided for by law. In Tanzania, income tax is governed by the Income Tax Act revised edition 2008 and subsequent amendments, the Tax Administration Act 2015, The Income Tax Regulations, EFD Regulations, The Income Tax (transfer pricing) Regulation 2014, and the Transfer Pricing guidelines. With the new government awakening to track any tax defaulters understanding Income tax laws could not be more important for those who want to be in line with the law.

WHAT IS THE MINIMUM TAXABLE INCOME FOR AN INDIVIDUAL?

The minimum monthly chargeable income currently is 170,000 Tanzania shillings. Any Individual who earns more than 170,000 Tanzania shillings is required to pay income tax. Income tax is paid progressively per the individual income meaning the more you earn the more income tax you pay. There are 4 tax bands for individuals.

To find out which tax band your income currently falls in see <http://www.tra.go.tz/index.php/income-tax-for-individual>

IS THERE GRACE PERIOD FOR COMPANIES ON INCOME TAX?

No. From 1997 there is no grace period for companies for not paying income tax. Corporate entities in Tanzania are required to pay a fixed 30% rate on their net profit as income tax from their first year of operation. However, there are some exceptions to the rule. Companies listed in the Dar-es-salaam Stock Exchange are required to pay only 25% income tax on their first three years of business. This is to encourage more companies to list companies in the Stock Exchange. Another exception to the rule is companies that fall under the Export Processing Zones. These companies are given special reliefs by the Tanzania Investment Center. A good example of such companies is a factory aimed at exporting. WHAT IS WITHHOLDING TAX?

Withholding tax is a mode of payment of income tax that is withheld at source. Meaning it is the tax that is collected by agents of the government from the income of the individual or entities. E.g. pay as you earn (PAYE) this is a form of income tax that is collected by the employer as an agent of the government from the employee and paid directly to the government without it first going to the employee. There are other forms of withholding tax deducted from payments such as rental income, interest rate royalty and service fees.

WHAT IS RENTAL INCOME TAX?

It is the type of withholding income tax that is deducted by a company or an individual doing business from a landlord rent. If a company is renting premises from a landlord or landlady it is required by law to withhold 10% of the gross payment as rental income tax payable to the government.

WHAT IF I AM NOT A COMPANY CAN I WITHHOLD RENTAL INCOME TAX OF MY LANDLORD AS ITS AGENT?

Not everyone can act as an agent for the government to withhold tax, individuals who are not doing business cannot withhold tax on behalf of the government.

DOES THAT MEAN MY LANDLORD OR LANDLADY IS NOT DIRECTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR PAYING RENTAL INCOME TAX?

No, the landlord is required by law to pay 10% of their gross rental income as income tax. Therefore, where an individual as an individual rents a property from a landlord/landlady it is the responsibility of the landlord/landlady to ensure the pay income on the gross payment of the payment they receive as rent. The law however provides in the event a landlord does not pay income tax on the rent paid by the tenant both the landlord and tenant shall be jointly and severally liable for none-payment of income tax. The tenant inclusion is to ensure that tenants make sure their landlord and land lady pay income tax on their rent.

ARE BANKS ALLOWED TO DEDUCT WITHHOLDING TAX FROM MY BANK ACCOUNT?

Yes, Banks are required to deduct income tax from the interest incurred in your account since this is deemed as income on your part. Banks are agents of the government and therefore have the mandate to withhold income tax on behalf of the government and pay it directly to the government on your behalf. The bank is allowed, to withhold 10% as withholding tax on the interest paid in your account.
